NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- SkinCeuticals announces the opening of its Advanced Clinical Spa inside Klara Beauty Lab, continuing its mission to coalesce state-of-the-art procedures and SkinCeuticals scientifically-backed skincare into integrated skincare programs nationwide. With clinical spas located throughout the United States, SkinCeuticals continues to develop partnerships designed to provide patients with the best possible experience from in-office to at-home.

SkinCeuticals is thrilled to announce its latest opening in New York City's Upper East Side, in partnership with medical esthetician Klara Chruszcz, a renowned skincare professional and elite member of the Associated Skin Care Professionals. Klara's dedication has earned her devoted celebrity clients and recognition from top-tier industry professionals. Klara Beauty Lab offers a full range of customizable treatments including medical facials, lasers and injectables.

Originally from Poland, Klara moved to the United States and immediately fell in love with New York City. She quickly realized that a fast-paced city lifestyle - with high levels of pollution, lack of sleep, and elevated stress levels - wreaks havoc on skin. Klara opened her beauty lab in order to educate her clients on these environmental aggressors and restore skin to optimal health, merging in-office aesthetic procedures and at-home topical skincare in an effort to provide holistic treatment plans emphasizing her philosophy that skincare is a total lifestyle commitment, not a miracle in a jar.

Klara says, "In skincare, consistency and maintenance is the key. I am very results-driven, and by combining the highest quality in-office procedures with SkinCeuticals skincare at home, I am confident that my clients are going to see long-lasting improvements in their overall skin health. I have used and recommended SkinCeuticals products for years, and am so excited to fully partner with them professionally."

Designed for use before, during, and after in-office procedures, SkinCeuticals offers premium, scientifically-backed products to maximize immediate and long-term patient benefits. Of the partnership, Brenda Wu, SkinCeuticals US General Manager, says, "We are thrilled to partner with esteemed esthetician Klara Chruszcz here in New York City. Her holistic approach to skincare, focusing on improving skin condition rather than quick fixes, is perfectly aligned with SkinCeuticals's ultimate goal to improve overall skin health. We look forward to supporting Klara to provide the best possible results to her clients."

Founded in Dallas, TX in 1997, SkinCeuticals discovers, develops, and delivers an advanced line of scientifically backed cosmeceutical treatments. As leaders in antioxidant and sun protection technology, SkinCeuticals products have been shown to dramatically improve skin health by protecting skin from environmental damage and visibly improving skin clarity, tone, and texture to minimize the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles.
